Chair's Greeting

Dear Colleagues,

The Department of Ophthalmology at NYU Langone Health is delighted to invite you to our educational events for the new academic year, detailed within this brochure. We have a robust visiting professor series, featuring renowned ophthalmology experts, embedded with our weekly Grand Rounds. Our annual Current Concepts of Ophthalmology (CME) course, now in its 15th year, takes place in January and is always a highlight. New this year is an in-person research visiting professor series, featuring outstanding vision scientists.

For those of you in the New York area, we would love to see you in person for any of our educational events. For those outside the metropolitan area, most of our educational programs can be accessed virtually. See the QR code on page 13 of the brochure for more information.

Our department is dedicated to pioneering the most innovative therapeutic and surgical techniques across all subspecialties. Together, we strive to empower the future leaders of our field by sharing the latest advances in ophthalmology care.

We look forward to welcoming you to our educational events this academic year.

CME: Current Concepts of Ophthalmology

The NYU Langone Health, Department of Ophthalmology, would like to invite you to join us on our 15th Annual Current Concepts of Ophthalmology course. This continuing medical education (CME) course gather leaders in the field from around the country to discuss the newest and most important diagnostic and treatment modalities. This year's course highlights current concepts in cataract surgery, retinal diseases, glaucoma, diabetes-related eye disease, neuro-ophthalmology, and oculoplastics. Residents will also present unique ophthalmology cases to expert panels for vibrant discussions.
